Farmers' Income Tax Meetings

C. O. MAY, M.S.C., AT CHARLEVOIX NEXT MONDAY

A discussion that will greatly assist farmers in the filing of their income tax returns will be held Monday afternoon, December 6th at 2:00 in the City Hall, Charlevoix. This year practically every farmer in the county must file a declaration of income on or before December 15th if they are on the calendar year basis. If on the March 1st fiscal year period which must be filed on February 15th or in other words the fifteenth day of the last month of your taxable year. It is hoped that this meeting will help answer the many questions the farmers have regarding this year's income tax program.

Mr. C. O. May, M.S.C. Specialist, has been making a study of this new income tax program and will have the answer to your problem. This year the tax is on the "pay-as-you-go" plan. Farmers are somewhat more fortunate than most self-employed individuals since they are required to make only one such estimate and payment and that is due one half month before the end of the taxable year. Furthermore, a farmer is allowed a 33 1|3% tolerance on under payments before a 6% penalty applies. While for other folks the tolerance is only 20%.

Following information will guide you as to whether you must file a "declaration of estimated income and Victory Tax". 1—Those not subject to the withholding tax and whose gross income is over $500.00 if single or over $624.00 if married regardless of exemptions and dependents. 2—Those subject to the withholding tax providing their wage or salary is $2700.00 if single or $3500.00 if married. 3—Those subject to the witholding tax but whose income from sources other than wages or salaries is expected to exceed $100.00 4—Even if the individual does not fall into anyone of the above classes he must file a declaration if his gross income for 1942 was $500.00 if he was single or $1200.00 if he was married and gross income from wages in 1942 was greater than the amount which he expects to earn in 1943.

While Specialist C. O. May can only be in the county for the one date of Monday afternoon, December 6th, two other meetings have been arranged for Wednesday and Thursday, December 8 and 9 to assist farmers in other communities in the county. On Wednesday afternoon, December 8th the meeting will be held in the City Hall, East Jordan beginning at 2:00 and on Thursday, December 9th in the City Library, Boyne City also at 2:00 in the afternoon. We will have forms to give out and hope to help you in carrying out this new responsibility.

Waste Paper Goes to War

PLANS BEING MADE FOR ANOTHER COLLECTION THIS MONTH

Waste paper contributed from Charlevoix County homes may go to war in the shape of bomb bands —that protective fibreboard girdle with which each aerial bomb, designed for dumping on Berlin and Tokyo, is wrapped.

"A bomb band, or ring, is used on all bombs from 250 pounds up to the one ton 'block-busters', "Harold S. Lees, Chairman of the Charlevoix County Salvage Committee said. "The band protects the lugs, used to hook the bombs onto an airplane while the bomb is being shipped to battle areas. Some bombs have two lugs and others one. If a lug should become damaged in transit, the release mechanism on the airplane might be impaired. Hence, the lugs must be protected.

'At the start of the war bomb band was made of metal. Steel bands weighing thirteen pounds were used. Today, the bands are made of paperboard held in place with a thin metal band, an the entire protection weighs only two and three quarter pounds.

"In addition to protecting the lug, the paper protection permits the bombs to be rolled without any part of the bomb touching the ground or other abrasive surfaces."

Waste paper of all types is desired in the waste paper program; with particular emphasis on old corrugated board, boxes, brown papet bags and brown wrapping paper. In addition to bomb bands, paper is going to war in the shape of overseas shipping containers, airplane parts, and as a protection for ammunition.

"Michigan paper mills face a curtailment of their war production unless they can secure stocks of brown colored waste paper, and Michigan, as you know, produces nearly one-third of all corrugated board made in the country. The types of paper urgently needed include brown paper boxes, brown paper bags such as groceries come in, heavy brown paper used in packaging, wrapping paper, corrugated paper, and unused wastebasket paper such as envelopes, magazine wrappers and especially newspapers.

County Post War Planning Conference Set for Tuesday, Dec. 7

The county post war planning meeting to be held in the Hotel Dilworth, Boyne City, on Tuesday, December 7th gives every indication of being a highly important meeting. Invitations have been sent out to over forty urban and rural leaders. They represent all phases of all organizations within the county. Included are outstanding farmers, members of the county planning committee, Conservation Department, Highway system, Co-opervisors, Federal Agencies and in fact all activity that pertains to agriculture.

The conference will start with a complimentary dinner at noon, followed by a full afternoon of discussion.

It is recognized that every county, municipality and rural communities will have many problems when the war closes and we take up civilian life again. As a basis for planning first of all the land itself must be considered. The land type determines the density and location of the rural population from which a livelihood may be obtained. When a definite decision has been reached many factors must be considered, as they touch upon health, employment, education, welfare and recreation. But in all cases land and trends, advantages and limitations of the community including climate, location and markets.

A good land use plan will do much to lessen the problems which are now developing in rural areas. To help in presenting subject matter for discussion specialists H. A. Berg and Louis Wolfanger, of the M.S.C. and a representative from the State Conservation Department will be present. Local leaders also will be asked to briefly outline the expected post war problems affecting their programs.

It is expected that following this conference a committee will be selected with the responsibility of meeting from time to time to develop rather definite recommeundations in Charlevoix County. Charlevoix County has a big responsibility in protecting the interests and welfare of its 13,000 population. Only by group action can we expect to solve these many problems.

Good Jobs Wait For Unemployed

Representatives of Clark Equipment Co., Buchanau, Mich., will interview applicants not now employed in essential activity, at the city building in East Jordan Friday night from 7 to 10 o'clock, December 3.

The company needs men for all kinds of welding, forging, heat treating, common labor, etc. Experience is not necessary; generous base rate and premius plan combine for lucrative hourly wage in all operations.

Adequate modern housing facilities are available within one block of the plant, and the company pays all traveling expenses of applicants and families to the plant.

A number of Emmett and Charlevoix county families are now comfortable and busy with the Clark company and they will welcome old friends from this community on the job. Talk to the personnel man Friday night. adv49-1

Bowling

The old maestro, Magee Clark, staged a one man blitz the other night and when the smoke had cleared away found himself the undisputed champ for the week with the nifty score of 254. As a matter of record he also had two other 200 games in the same series. A'tta boy, Magee!

West sider Roy Nowland startled the spectators and trimmed his opposition to a fare-ye-well when he found the grooves last week and chalked up a fancy 221. Tom and Lee are plotting their revenge, Roy, so watch your step from now on!

That ace of keglers, Ed. Reuling headed for the Navy—and we'll wager next months bonus that his shooting will be as straight as that famous head-pin ball of his. The maple lanes will miss you, Lieutenant, and every player and teammate says, "Bon voyage—and safe return." Good luck sailor.

That mottled sphere that Mildred Campbell rolls is mowing them down in championship style! Last week her 205 horizontal pins lead the Womans division and copped the High Score prize money. It's becoming a sort of habit with bowler Mildred!

After several weeks of near misses and "blows" Milt Ward has found that well know spot again and has boosted his totals from the slump low of 119 to yesterdays satisfactory 245! Hot or cold, there she blows!

Did you notice that 272 (with handicap) that Kiley Bader hung up? Just like the old days, eh Kiley— remember when they used to fly! Anyhoo it sure looks like a swell comeback and we hope it lasts.

War Fund Drive Nearing The Top

EAST JORDAN HAS ONLY A LITTLE WAY MORE TO GO TO FILL QUOTA

Our East Jordan United War Fund Campaign is marching on to Victory beautifully. According to the record at the bank we have only a little way to go in order to reach our goal which is $1245.00.

Contributions have been coming in regularly and generously. There are still a few business places which may wish to contribute to this worthy and vital cause of assisting the unfortunate enslaved, starved innocent people of the Allied nations.

Such further donations will be most appreciatively received at the bank. We hope the "drive" will go nicely "over the top." The final figure will be published in next week's Charlevoix County Herald.

In the meantime we are all proud of our typical magnificent East Jordan spirit of co-operation and "Lift."

RUBBER GOODS RESTRICTIONS EASED

A worker whose dealer is unable to fill his order for rationed rubber footwear before his purchase certificate expires may leave the certificate with the dealer and get the footwear at a later date.

Formerly, rationed rubber footwear had to be delivered to the customer within 30 days after the purchase certificate was issued to him by his local War Price and Rationing Board. However, since dealers' stocks of rubber footwear are often temporarily low, due to wartime shipping and manufacturing conditions, some workers may have difficulty getting delivery of their footwear within this time limit. For this reason today's action permits delivery at any time provided an order has been placed and the certificate is left with a dealer before the end of the 30-day period when it expires for consumer use.

If the worker orders his rubber footwear by mail, the postmark may be considered the date on which the certificate is left with the dealer.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:17; Luke 12: 13-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not covet . . . anything that is thy neighbor's.—Exodus 20:17.

The Ten Commandments (the last one of which we study today) are characterized by their brevity, their comprehensive touch with all of life, and fidelity to the right. But they are also unique and different from all other laws in that they reach into the inner recesses of a man's heart, a realm where only God can judge and act.

This last commandment (against covetousness) emphasizes that point, for it does not expressly require or forbid any act, but deals with the motive of man's action. Man can judge another man's acts, but he cannot judge his motives, desires, or thoughts. God must do that.

But man can, by the grace of God, control his motives; and hence we have this commandment and its interpretation.

I. The Sin—Covetousness (Ex. 20:17).

It may be a surprise to many to learn that coveting—or desiring what belongs to another—is a sin. It has become one of the "respectable sins" accepted in the best circles and practiced by many church people.

As a matter of fact, this sin underlies all the other sins against which the commandments speak. He who has a love for money and an evil desire to have his neighbor's possessions will hate, lie, steal, cheat, kill, in fact, as Dr. Morgan says, "The whole realm of human interrelations is disorganized and broken up by the dishonoring of the tenth commandment."

If you have become a lover of money, or one who longs to have what your friends own, beware. You are in real danger.

II. The Result — A Ruined Life (Luke 12: 13-21).

To have such a spirit makes a man greedy (v. 13), callous and selfish (vv. 17-19), and foolish (v. 20), both regarding this life and that which is to come.

The yardstick of success in the world—for an individual, an organization, or a nation; yes, even for many a church—is the possession of wealth, or property, or other "things." Write it in large letters on the hearts and minds of our boys and girls, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (v. 15).

The one who was known to his friends (and to himself) as "a rich man" (v. 16), but whom God knew as a "fool" (v. 20), had more than he could use for himself. He had to build new and bigger barns, and could not see the "barns" that were already prepared, for, as Ambrose says, "Thou hast barns—the bosoms of the needy, the houses of widows, the mouths of orphans and infants."

He was a fool who loved money for himself. One wonders what he had to say for himself when that very night he was called into the presence of God to give an account of his stewardship (v. 20). If you are similarly situated and have the same attitude, what will you say in that day?

An important point which we must note is that Jesus expressly repudiated the connecting of His name with the so-called "social gospel" in His reply (v. 14).

III. The Cure—Trust in God (Luke 12:22-25).

Because covetousness destroys the best in life, we ought to shun it like poison. The best antidote (or cure) if we have been poisoned by it is to go all-out in our trust and confidence in God.

We who are children of God are to take no anxious thought for the morrow. This does not forbid proper preparation and forethought, but it does rule out fretful anxiety. The reasons are very clear and cogent.

First of all, while food and clothing are important, they are not of first importance. The vital thing is that one have life. Otherwise things are useless (v. 23). We must keep our sense of proportion, of relative values.

Then too, God is the One who must care for every one of us. And He does care for us! Why not trust Him? He cares for all creation; can He not care for you? If then you trust the all-powerful One, what occasion is there for worry, or covetousness?

And finally comes the devastating argument. Worry never accomplished anything. Anxiety does not help anyone, anytime, anywhere. So why be anxious?

It is clear then that a desire for that which belongs to others is a sin which destroys man's happiness and usefulness. It is needless—as is all anxiety—because only God can provide, and He will provide if we trust Him.

Life becomes simple, pleasant, useful, confident, yes, really Christian, when we get our eyes off things and on the Lord.

A unique American family is that of the Irish Horse Traders whose 4,000 members, all related by blood or by marriage, spend most of their time traveling through the South in small groups trading horses and mules. Their one official address is an undertaking establishment in Atlanta to which they ship their dead and where they meet for a week every April to celebrate marriages and to hold their annual mass funeral.

The Japs were wrong

Let's keep them wrong!

The Japs were wrong.

Cutting off our rubber supply in the Pacific didn't take us out of the war—or even slow us up.

For Government, the Rubber Director, the rubber industry, and the petroleum, chemical, and alcohol industries pooled their patents and ideas, worked together, and accomplished the seemingly impossible.

Today, there is no shadow of a doubt that our planes will continue to fly, our ships to sail, our tanks to roll.

For America now has nearly enough rubber to meet our essential needs!

But our tire worries are still here!

The American people saw the new synthetic rubber plants spring up like mushrooms. They heard of large-scale production of synthetic rubber. And they applauded. Unfortunately, they also jumped to the conclusion that they could stop worrying about tires!

It is true that the RUBBER supply crisis is past. But the long-expected TIRE shortage is with us!

"But," you may say, "how can this be when thousands of tons of Government synthetic rubber are being made . . . when such a tremendous tonnage of rubber products is being turned out, as well as more airplane and truck tires than ever before."

One reason is that—as the Baruch Committee foresaw—few tires could be manufactured until our synthetic rubber supply was well on the way. This resulted in millions of tires going out of use at a time when there were no replacements. Meanwhile, tires left in service have less mileage in them, and prewar inventories are gone.

Another reason is that our military needs are far greater than anyone anticipated.

Also, the rubber companies are using a lot of their machinery and manpower to turn out life rafts, bullet-sealing fuel tanks, and hundreds of other urgently-needed army and navy products, in addition to tires.

And you should know that half of today's requirements are for large-size, heavy-duty bus, truck, artillery, airplane, and combat tires, requiring much more labor and materials than peacetime products.

Finally, the tire industry, like every industry today, is feeling the manpower shortage, and there just aren't enough hands for the job.

Face up on the table!

These problems will be overcome when our enemies are overcome. Meanwhile, we want to put our cards face up on the table.

We've told you frankly why there is a serious tire shortage. Now we want you, and every other American who owns a set of tires, to know that this country's transportation system can still suffer a serious blow . . . unless you make it your personal duty to take care of the tires you now own.

How to make tires last longer

Do no unnecessary driving.

Live up to the Government regulation—don't exceed 35 miles an hour.

Keep your tires inflated up to recommended pressure, and check them every week.

Avoid hitting holes in the road, or bruising your tires on curbs or stones. Don't start or stop suddenly. Slow down for sharp corners.

See that your wheels and axles are in line.

Switch your tires from wheel to wheel every five thousand miles, and have them inspected regularly for removal of foreign objects and repair of cuts.

And . . . most important of all . . . recap your tires as soon as they become smooth.

HOW GOOD ARE PASSENGER CAR TIRES OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER?

It may be a long time before all civilians can get synthetic rubber tires. Meanwhile, if you should be one of the few who do get them, you will want this information:

Synthetic rubber tires for passenger cars are good tires, and will give you satisfactory service if you take care of them.

You should not think of synthetic rubber tires as improved tires . . . but as emergency tires. And remember that they have not yet had time to prove what they can do.

It is beside the point to theorize on how they would react to the phenomenally high speeds of prewar days. Every patriotic American knows that tire treads . . . all tire treads . . . wear out faster at high speeds, and so drives at today's recommended speed of 35 miles an hour.

As time goes on, we will learn more about the effects of under-inflation of rough roads, and of other abuses. They damage all tires. Indications are that they do proportionately more harm to synthetic rubber tires.

Meanwhile, all tires are rationed to you in trust for the nation, and it is your duty to take every possible care of them, to avoid misuse and prevent abuse.

As experience teaches us more and more about synthetic rubber tires, we will pass the information along to you. Meantime, play safe. Be careful!

If you use synthetic rubber tubes, be sure they are properly installed. They should be put into the tire, then inflated, deflated, and inflated again. And they should never be mounted on rusty rims.

TRUCK AND BUS TIRES ARE A DIFFERENT STORY

Truck and bus tires, being larger and heavier, generate more heat. They are given long, hard usage on all kinds of highways. They are all too frequently overloaded.

Frankly, today's synthetic rubber bus and truck tires will not stand the abuse that prewar tires would stand, especially overloading. Progress is being made daily—but overloading which would have damaged a prewar tire can ruin today's synthetic tire.

The Tire Industry is doing its utmost to solve the serious problem of providing the nation's trucks and buses with satisfactory tires in sufficient quantities.

But until this problem is solved, a dangerous threat exists to America's most vital transportation.

Therefore, while treads of present truck and bus tires are immensely important . . . the carcasses of these tires have a value beyond all price to America, and to America's truck and bus operators!

Unless tires now in use are made to last, these two essential services will almost certainly break down!

These tires . . . every one of them . . . must be recapped the instant the tread wears smooth . . . before any damage is done to the carcass.

They must be recapped not once, but again and again! High speeds must be done away with . . . especially on hot roads. Overloads must be avoided. Tires must be properly inflated at all times.

The responsibility to take care of these tires . . . to make them last as long as possible . . . is a vital necessity! It must be shouldered by all operators, by all drivers, by all garage men!

No American can fail to heed this warning! The situation is so serious that it is recognized in a new tire warranty. But the real job is to conserve all tires now in use!

A new warranty —

With conditions as they are, and synthetic rubber in its present stage of development, a new tire warranty has become necessary and has been adopted. It applies to all tires. Under its terms, injuries such as bruises, body breaks, cuts, snags, and heat failures as well as tread wear are not subject to adjustment consideration.

Nor are injuries or failures which result from improper tire care or misuse or abuse. This includes failure as a result of overload, excess speed, improper inflation, or other non-defective conditions. Or when tires are used on rims not conforming to Tire and Rim Association Standards.

Don't forget that everyone . . . the Tire Industry, the Rubber Director, and many others, are working together with all their energy, as they have worked from the beginning, to keep America rolling.

And remember that, while the Japs were wrong ...you must help keep them wrong! Take care of the tires you now have!

Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

ED REULING — EDITOR

Dear Friends:

Well I guess this is it — the last time for now that I'll be on this end of the firing line. It's the navy for me when I report for duty on the 15th. For a long time now it's been a close race between my enlistment and the draft board. Facts are notice of 1-A classification and acceptance of my enlistment arrived in the same mail. Just slightly too close for comfort although I confess that neither is particularly comfortable. Even so a lot of you, my pals, have gone on ahead of me and they'll never be able to say that Ed Reuling wasn't ready when his Uncle Sam said he was needed.

I haven't the foggiest idea of what the future holds in store for me and mine. I don't know what sort of an assignment will be mine, nor can I even guess now where I will be stationed after my tour of training. Maybe, as I become another correspondent, my successor can keep you posted on my doings as I have tried to do on all of you.

As for this column. I have every reason to believe that somehow, someway, someone will find ways and means to continue this work I have started and carried on for71 straight weeks now. Just who my successor will be I wouldn't know. I do know, however, that he can't keep things going unless you furnish him with the ammunition to fire, and, that any appreciable gap in receipt of ammunition from you fellows would make the writing difficult just at the time when it should be made as easy as possible. If you have had in mind dropping me a line, do so anyhow. The mail will be turned over to whoever is to take over. By so doing the change over to the new editor will be gradual and less difficult.

The suddenness of the impact has left me slightly shortwinded and pressed for time. For once in my life I'm kind of at a loss for words. I do want you fellows to know, however, that I appreciate your cooperation and your many kind thoughts and expressions of appreciation. This work has been fun and thought it has, at times, been rather demanding of my time, it's something that I could do back home here and I've been mighty happy to have been able to do it. It has made a lot of new friends for me and has, I hope, found you a new friend too. If it has given you a lift when a lift was needed I'm glad. I'm sorry to have to break off before the end of my job but I guess Uncle Sam has a fuu time job waiting for me now.

Until final victory is ours I am, friends, as always, your friend, Edwin K. Reuling, Lt. (j.g.) U.S.N.R.

HOME TOWN CHATTER

Servicemen home during the week include coastguardsman MARIAN HUDKINS and CALVIN DOUGHERTY. They both looked swell and seemed in tip top shape. Marian has been doing plenty of crusing around the Atlantic and other oceans but doesn't say much about what he has seen or done. The sparkle in his wife's eyes as she listens to his friends and family greet him could, I think, tell quite a story if we could convert her thoughts to words. Calvin just checked in at Camp Howze and right out again on furlough. He figures himself plenty lucky to still be on this side but is guessing his luck won't hold out. He is only about 180 miles from Fort Reno, Okla., where brother Nolin is stationed so they are planning to meet half way right soon now. It could be I'm missing giving you a report on other servicemen visitors. If so I'm sorry. Just the same if a guy doesn't see, hear or smell them out it's tough to know they are here. It was swell seeing you, Marian and Cal. Here's luck to you.

For this time of year the weather hereabouts has been mild. We haven't much snow and not too much cold. Now and then an uncomfortable day comes along but on the whole your old home town has been a pretty nice place to be this last while. I'm pretty much sold on Northern Michigan and, from reading your letters, you fellows far away are too. I doubt if any of us can get back here quick enough. Let's hurry it up. What say?

Just to keep the record clear maybe I ought to set you straight on how this column, and, its name, came about. Before Pearl Harbor and more particularly since, your home town was figuring ways and means to keep you in touch with what's doing back here. Along around July, 1942, all of the churches, lodges, clubs and other organizations in town decided to pool their efforts and resources and formed the Community Service Club. As something practical to start with I offered to write a weekly news letter to those of you who were in the service at that time. I started out with a mimeographed letter which I called "A Letter From Home." The first one came out August 1, 1942 and was followed by seven more. At that time there were something like 140 on the mailing list. In those first eight letters I suggested that you fellows think up a name for the letter I was writing. Along about Sept. 19th we decided that we could give you better news coverage if we incorporated the weekly letter into the Herald. I had to do some scratching to figure out a name for the column and eventually come up with Reveille on the Jordan. Since No. 9 of Vol. 1 (the first column in the Herald) that's what its been. Now the paper goes out to over 400 of you, we are working on No. 19 of Vol. 2, I have received 1230 letters from almost all of you and we have a complete record of addresses, etc., on each of you. The theory behind my writing has always been to collect news of and about all of you and fire it back at you to keep you all posted on each other, plus, such home town gossip as was printable, plus, a sort of a word cheer to each of you in the form of a personal letter using words in so writing the same as if we were sitting down back home here for a chat. There, in a nut shell, is the history of our work up to now. Just what kind of a record it is, is not for me to say, but, whatever grade you may give it, I'm kind of proud of it. So what? So I sincerely hope that whoever takes over will make an honest effort to keep this column rolling each week without a miss, and, keep the name and heading as it was figured out at the start.

If what is written this week seems to be too much "I" and not enough "We", "You" or "They" skip that part. Just now what happens to me and mine seems most important to me and I can't seem to get my mind on anything else. There are only about a thousand loose ends to gather up and nail down before shoving off, probably in my case, even a few more than most of you had before you left! On many occasions a lot of you have inquired about Irene and the children. I've mentioned all of them here often — mostly to just give you that little personal, homey touch not usually found in newspaper articles. Because of such frequent mention you might like to know what's happening to them. Well — Gram and Gramp (my folks) have a pretty big house in East Lansing and a great deal of affection for their son, his wife and his children. It just seems to us that, since they want for sure to have my family with them while I am away, it really would be best for the family to be there. So, they are going to East Lansing for now. We are not going to bust up my office nor our home. It will be mostly a case of just making things safe and secure and then turn the key in the door and turn our backs. Kind of rugged after ten years at that. If any of you readers have anything at all that you want to get in touch with me about communications addressed to Irene at 130 Fern St., East Lansing, Mich., will for sure be forwarded.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

When I came down here this morning (Sunday) I thought for sure I'd get this last session out of the way quite handily. The facts are friends I just am not on the beam today and for sure there won't be any more time later in the week. If, therefore, you find I've skimmed along pretty fast today skip it just this once. . . . STU ATKINSON has added the 2nd stripe. MORE HAWLEY has a new A-PO. . . . DELBERT DENNIS is back in England after a mighty long stretch in Iceland. LOU KAMRADT gets his mail at Sitka, Alaska. DUTCH BATTERBEE has checked in at the Naval Air Station in Maryland. MIKE HITCHCOCK is now at San Louis Obispo, Cal. . . . EARL SHELDON sent along Xmas Greetings from Iceland. . . . BOB STREHL is a two striper now having finished machinist's mate school but we still don't have his new address. . . . PETE HAMMOND doesn't like La. maneuvers. FRANCIS VOTRUBA is still at Camp Hood but now with a Tank Destroyer Bn. FRANCIS LILAK likes Italy a lot better than North Africa. SONNY HOSLER got what for from his girl for sending me her letter and her mine. BOB WINSTONE, MAUP ICE KRAEMER and ABE COHN got together over in the Pacific and had a swell chat. They each report each looking fine and doing a good job. . . . RED GEE says he has Cat Fever and is in sick bay. Hope it's not for long Red. EDDIE COLLINS thinks the Fighting Eightieth is tops, and Camp Phillips O. K. too. BOB GOULD had experiences with waves (the salty kind) in Hawaii and likes it down there. BRUCE WOODCOCK is getting along first rate and in about three weeks now will be back in the harness for more rugged training. 'twas good news Bruce. . . . RALPH LARSON is in the station hospital at Waycross, Georgie, but expects to be out soon. And congratulations to Tommy Thacker on the promotion to Capt. He is in Italy now and he too likes it better than North Africa. He wrote a two page V-mail typewritten letter. Think I'll start my successor off by turning it over to him as his first round of ammunition to fire.

And there you have it friends. In reading back it does kind of sound like I'm sorry for myself. Facts are I am and I don't much care who knows it. It's no use to say goodby — and I'm not going to say it. It's just as always, friends, except of until next week it's until victory is ours. Good Luck and So Long. — Ed.

IF YOU PLEASE

Will the relatives of service men, knowing of a change of address, please write same down (preferably in ink) and hand or mail to Att'y E. K. Reuling or The Herald office. Please remember the serial number MUST always be given.

Our men in the service want the home-town newspaper each week. When their address is changed—and that is quite often — they do not get the newspaper for several weeks.

PLEASE REMEMBER our men in the service are mighty busy and have little time to notify Ed or The Herald each time their address changes.

It is up to you and you and you to get The Herald to the men "out there."

Just write full address (in ink please) and mail or hand it in. And do it the moment you know of the change of address.

Even if the address has not been changed recently, please send it in anyhow, as we do not have the serial number of a large number of those in the service. Uncle Sam says we MUST give the serial number on addresses.

The Service Club, Att'y Reuling and The Herald will appreciate your cooperation.

Dreams of Fried Chicken When Lost in the Jungle

ALEXANDRIA, LA. — What are the poignant thoughts of a bombardier, lost with his comrades in the jungles of Australia for three days?

Capt. Donald C. Miller of the Alexandria army air base supplies the answer:

"He thinks of Southern fried chicken."

His plane ran out of gas over Australia. That's how he happened to dream about the Southern fried chicken. A Catalina flying boat rescued the bomber's crew.

Two Cousins Meet for First Time in England

LONDONDERRY. — Two cousins in the United States armed forces traveled over 3,000 miles to meet here for the first time in their lives.

They are Capt. George C Ludcke Jr. of Minneapolis, Minn., of the Marines, and Staff Sergt. Lee J. Ludcke of Oakland, Calif., of the 8th airforce.

Help him get a line to home

ABOUT the only time he can get to the telephone is a few short hours in the evening. That's when thousands of other boys in the camps want to use long distance, too.

Any time you are not on the lines, there's a better chance for a soldier's call to get through.

So unless it's urgent, we hope you won't be using long distance from 7 to 10 o'clock at night. Save these hours for the service men.

KEEP ON Backing the Attack WITH WAR BONDS

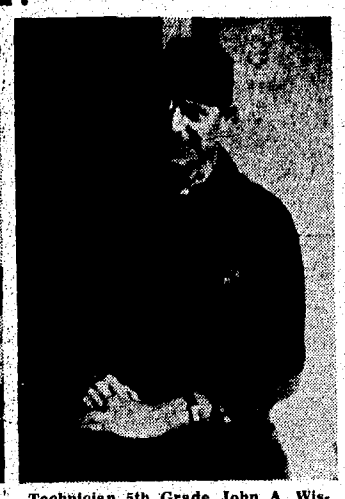

"We Are Buying War Bonds—Are You?"

Part of Sgt. Edward Straube's left foot was shot away at Ferryville, near Bizerte, North Africa. At Halloran General Hospital, Staten Island, N. Y., they are building up his foot again. Sgt. Straube, from Perth Amboy, N. J., buys War Bonds regularly.

Sgt. Bernard Rello, 22, of New York, was wounded by snipers during the Sicilian campaign. His grandparents live in Naples, and he has a brother in the Army. Both buy War Bonds regularly. Do you do as much?

Technician 5th Grade John A. Wisniewski, 25, of Door, Mich., lost his right eye, three fingers and suffered chest wounds from shrapnel in the fight to capture Tunis. He is now recovering at Halloran and is a regular War Bond purchaser.

Pvt. Bernard Heidemann's left leg will be two inches shorter when he is discharged from Halloran. He was wounded by a German bullet during the operations in Sicily last August. His home is Chicago. He has been in traction since Sept. He's buying bonds.

The nickname of Pvt. Milton Lieberman, 27, of Brooklyn, is "Clark Gable." He was wounded in Sicily last August and has been at Halloran since October. Every payday $12.50 is taken out for War Bonds Lieberman is buying. How many do you buy?

PENINSULA...

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

While the telephone service is very much improved, it is still very unsatisfactory.

Wm. Gaunt Jr. of Three Bells Dist. backed a fine buck about 90 rods from the house, Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hayden and five sons of Jones Dist. spent Thanksgiving with the Haydens at Orchard Hill.

Our snow, which started coming 4 weeks ago, is still coming in small quantities. It has not all disappeared at any time.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagner of Charlevoix spent Sunday evening with the Ray Loomis family at Gravel Hill, north side.

Mrs. Raymond Lachinsky, who has resided at the Willow Brook farm since early spring, went to Detroit last Sunday expecting to get employment, and had to come back and get a permit.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Bennett and family of Honey Slope farm spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Tracy LaCroix and family in Advance Dist.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baughman and family of near Boyne Falls spent Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. James Palmiter and family in Three Bells Dist.

F. K. Hayden of Pleasant View farm got his car out of the repair shop, Saturday evening, after it being there two weeks for repairs, caused by the radiator freezing up and busting.

Mr. C. A. Crane of Cedar Lodge is working in Detroit at his old place to help out in the labor shortage during the holidays. Miss Arlene Hayden of Pleasant View farm stays with Mrs. Crane nights.

There were 24 at the Star Sunday school, Nov. 28. Mrs. John Seiler, who has been absent the last several Sundays, kept at home by a badly injured knee, was on the job again, which added very much to the day's session.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price of Ironton will take the bunch of crippled children, including little Douglas Hayden of Pleasant View farm, to Ann Arbor again Monday, to have the braces on his ankle readjusted.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Reich and family had for Thanksgiving dinner guests, their daughter Mrs. Frank Lesher and family of Petoskey; daughter Miss Ann Reich of Lansing, who arrived on the 4 o'clock bus Thanksgiving Day and remained until Sunday.

Word has been received from Mrs. Jesse Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Riley (Beryl Bennett) that they motored to Keego Harbor, Nov. 19. the day they started, with trailer & car load of furniture for Mrs. Atkinson.

Wilfred Arnott, of Maple Lawn farm, who is detained here by government regulations, will begin work on the night shift at the East Jordan Iron Works, Monday. Mrs. Arnott got a permit to work in Detroit and has been employed there the past several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loomis and family of Gravel Hill, north side, entertained for Thanksgiving, Mrs. Loomis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Sweet of Advance, and their daughter, Mrs. Charles Arnott and family of Maple Row farm, and Wilfred Arnott of Maple Lawn farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McClure of Deer Lake and Mrs. McClure's son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Ellison of Muskegon, were supper guests of Mr. McClure's daughter and family, Mrs. Will Gaunt in Three Bells Dist, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gaunt entertained for Sunday dinner their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crowell and family of Dave Staley Hill, west side, in honor of their 28th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers and little daughter of Mountain Dist. and Mr. and Mrs. James Earl of Charlevoix also called on them.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Hayden and family of Pleasant View farm, were supper guests of Mrs. Hayden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beyer in Chaddock Dist. Their son, Leo, who has been in Southern Michigan for some time, also came for the supper. He joined the other inductees Friday. He is the third Beyer son to be in the service, John in the west, Carl in Main, and now Leo, the oldest son. There are still Rolland of Detroit and Herman the youngest at home and still in the grades at school.

The East Jordan Cream Truck went on the blink at the foot of Bunker Hill, Friday, about noon, when the radius rod gave way. Chester Walden, the driver, was not much hurt when the load of mostly empty cans rolled over into the creek. The nearest help was the A. G. Reich farm, but the tractor there was on another farm, the next nearest was Ridgeway farms but the Russell tractor could not move it, and no telephone was available. Orvel Bennett, who had been looking for the truck, got into his car and investigated, then went and got the caterpiller from Sunny Slopes farm. LeRoy Nicloy drove it, and together the two tractors and several men righted it and took the driver back to East Jordan for repairs, and he made the regular trip about 4 p. m.

Meat of Wild Animals Could Go Far In Replenishing Family Larder

Approximately a million pounds of meat could be added to Michigan's ration if modern consumers followed their pioneer ancestors' example of eating meat of wild animals killed for sport or fur, according to state conservation department game men.

Over 500,000 pounds of muskrat alone could be used to supplement the wartime food supply and could be made into delicious dishes as many connoisseurs who have already made use of the 'marsh rabbit' will testify. 'Possum, woodchuck and raccoon also have their supporters among consumers who have taken advantage of this source of meat.

In the 1942 season, trappers and hunters took almost 400,000 muskrats, more than 35,000 raccoons, about 8,000 woodchuck and about 6,000 beaver.

Conservation officials suggest that people eating wild game for the first time consider it an entirely new dish and not try to compare it with beef, pork or other domestic meats because it has a flavor entirely its own.

Hunters Get Tracking Weather

Hunters' wishes for snow on opening day came true, starting the 1943 deer season off with almost ideal hunting conditions for nimrods who overcame wartime difficulties to get to the woods for their favorite sport. The three hunters pictured are examining deer tracks clearly marked in the snow to decide whether they're a buck's or doe's before setting out on the trail.

Deer Season Closed Tuesday

THIS YEAR'S KILL AVERAGES GOOD. 17 HUNTER'S WERE KILLED — A RECORD HIGH

Michigan's annual deer season came to a conclusion Tuesday with Conservation Department experts predicting the 1943 kill will equal last year's when 62,000 bucks were bagged.

Preliminary checks of license issuing agents also revealed that almost 215,000 persons have taken out permits to shoot deer, the same number as last year.

With the season in its final day the hunting death toll stood at 17, a record high. Nearly 50 other hunters were wounded and at least four sportmen died of heart attack in the woods.

The number of game law violators rose sharply this season, figures showed. Game wardens made 603 arrests compared with 443 total arrests in 1942. Most of the violators were for carrying loaded guns in cars and for shining deer.

Conservation men have confiscated 415 illegally shot doe while only 297 were recovered in 1942.

In East Jordan one of the highlights was when Bob Petrie secured a license last Wednesday, borrowed his fathers rifle Thanksgiving morning and killed his deer in Echo township within an hours hunting.

Undoubtedly some lucky hunters are omitted from The Herald list, but in closing it stands as follows:—

New Features of State Fish Law Digest, Just Issued

A new feature of the 1944 Michigan Fish Law Digest, just published by the state conservation department, is the listing of rules and regulations governing the use of public fishing sites. Fishermen who do their angling on the 188 public sites purchased with funds provided by law from resident fishing license fees will find this list a handy guide to the regulations.

The 1944 digest also gives a summary of the new law, in effect this year for the first time, concerning ice shanties, houses and shelters. The law states that all structures placed on the ice and left unattended must have the name and address of the owner on the outside in legible letters at least 2 inches high. Also required is before ice conditions become unsafe before ice conditions becomeunsafe or within 30 days after the ice melts.

The Fish Law Digest is sent out with fishing licenses or may be obtained from the conservation department.

CHRISTMAS TREES

As the Christmas season approaches, many folks driving in the evergreen areas will desire to bring one or more trees and greens home. Because of State Legislation, this is only permissible when the tree and greens are accompanied by a "Bill of Sale" executed by the property owner and kept in possession when transporting the trees.

According to Charles Figy, Commissioner of Agriculture, again this year Police Posts are erected on the main highways whereby trees will be checked for Bills of Sale. Blanks for legal Bills of Sale can be obtained at the Bureau of Orchard and Nursery, C. A. Boyer, Director, State Department of Agriculture, or through the cooperation of various other agencies, such as Conservation Officers, State Police, County Sheriffs and County Agricultural Agents

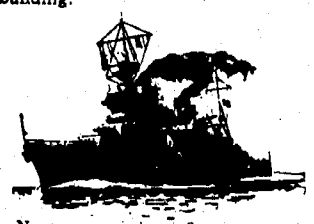

All trees with roots attached are classed as nursery stock and this type of material must be inspected on the grounds where it is grown before it is permissible to be moved.

Jan Payson sings in the floor show at the Devon Arms. She used to sell magazines there to support her invalid sister, Dora, but Paul Harris discharged her when she was late for work on Thanksgiving. Later, when he found out that the rich William Anthony Deverest knew her, he gave her the leading part in the floor show, thinking that Deverest's interest would bring patronage. Jan, however, thinks Deverest is his own chauffeur, Tony Williams, and he does not dare enlighten her, because she tells him she hates Deverest because of his wealth. Harris is disappointed because the show is not a success, and places the blame on Jan. She decides to ease her mind by telling Tony her troubles.

CHAPTER III

It was the opening she had been waiting for and Jan forced herself to seize it. In halting phrases she told him something of the life she and Dora had led at Mrs. Mallord's. She described Paul's sudden interest in her and her bewilderment as to the cause of it.

But as she reached the point in her narrative where Paul had referred to William Anthony Deverest, she felt him stiffen with new interest. She made herself go on, giving him a complete picture of all that had happened to her that day.

"So you've got to produce William Anthony in person, eh?"

"Oh, Tony, I know that's impossible. But if there was some other way—maybe I could meet somebody else—" she floundered and stopped.

"No, that wouldn't be so good. If they want Deverest, they should have him."

Jan sighed. "Well, I guess Dora and I will just have to forget all about it. I can get a job somewhere else."

"But why," Tony demanded. "You know my boss isn't like a lot of these playboys — he's always avoided publicity like poison. Why, many's the time I've gone to a banquet or a dinner and said I was he. I got away with it, too."

"Tony, you didn't!" Jan could scarcely believe her ears.

"Sure I did. And I'll do it again."

There had been a hundred things to see to before Tony could appear at the Devon Arms. Jan had had a talk with Paul Harris and made it clear to him that there must be no publicity about the appearance of Mr. Deverest. "He absolutely forbids it;" she told the hotel manager.

Jan hoped that the fatal night when Tony was to show up at the Devon Arms would never arrive, did. If Tony was at the table agreed upon she would die, she knew, and if he wasn't there she would die, too, even more suddenly!

For a moment, as the spot light caught and held her, she was dazzled and could see nobody. But as the song went on and the other girls took up the chorus, the light shifted, and she could see Tony at the ringside table.

It was because she was staring at him so hard that Jan did not see a girl who was approaching his table until she was suddenly at his side, laughing down at him. Tony pushed back his chair and rose instantly, catching both the hands the girl extended to him in his big brown ones.

It was with an effort that Jan took the solo part again as the voices of the other girls came to a stop. She felt as if she could not make a sound. Her throat was constricted with terror, and she was surprised to hear herself singing the mournful notes of the "blues" song that was Zambrini's special pride.

"Why you stay back here?" inquired Zambrini solemnly. "Go out see Mr. Deverest. Mr. Harris like that. Go on—go on . . . out now." He urged her hastily toward the entrance to the supper room. Mechanically Jan obeyed. This was what their plan had been. She might as well go through with it.

Before Jan was halfway across the room to Tony's table he was on his feet and coming toward her. "You were gorgeous," he whispered, pulling Jan's hand through his arm. He settled her in a chair at the table and sat down in his own, hitching it around so that it would be closer to hers.

"I've ordered supper for you," he said briskly, "we don't have to waste any time over that."

"Oh, Tony," said Jan with a little catch in her voice, "will you lose your job?"

"Why should I?"

"That girl—that girl, half buried in silver fox—won't she tell who you are?"

"You mean Marcia? Did you see her stop here?" said Tony comfortably. "That's Marcia Mayfield, very much Social Register, just out this year. She knows—my boss. Just stopped to ask me when he'll be back in town."

"But won't she tell somebody, maybe Paul Harris, who you are?"

"Oh, no, not Marcia! She's too dizzy, wouldn't waste time gossiping to hotel managers. That girl has enough on her hands trying to marry money her first season. You can forget her. We have just time for once around the floor before the waiter comes. Please . . . it's heavenly dancing with you," he coaxed.

Paul Harris was as nearly effusive as was possible for a man of his habitual restraint to be when he saw Jan in the doorway.

"Come in, come in," he invited. Then as Jan obeyed, "Off to see—somebody?"

"I'm going to see Mr. Deverest off," Jan said, trying to appear casual.

"He's not going away again!" exclaimed Paul.

"Yes, he is." This was harder than she had expected. There was a brief but chilling silence. Jan forced herself to meet the suddenly alert gaze that the manager turned on her. There was disbelief in his penetrating stare which changed, as Jan watched him in fascinated distress, to a sort of icy anger. But when he spoke his voice was controlled as ever.

"Will Mr. Deverest be gone long?" Paul inquired.

"Indefinitely," said Jan. She might as well get this thing settled once and for all.

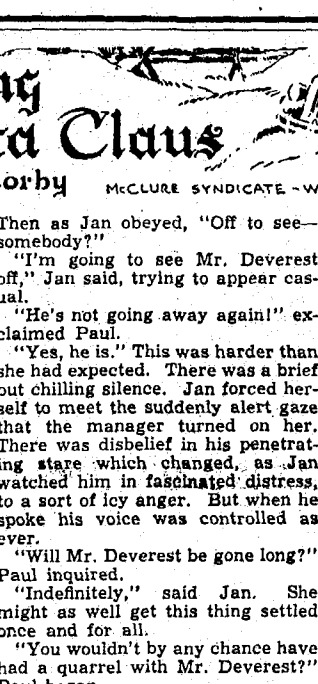

"You wouldn't by any chance have had a quarrel with Mr. Deverest?" Paul began.

"Well, it wasn't exactly a quarrel," said Jan hastily. "It was a sort of—of disagreement."

"Perhaps there is a new—what the columnists call 'heart throb?' "

Jan colored at his tone. "I don't know," she said shortly. "Really, Mr. Harris . . ."

"Come, come, Miss Payson," Paul was suddenly the practical man of the world. "I don't have to explain to you again that your value to the show is chiefly as a drawing card for Mr. Deverest and his friends. I could have hired a girl who could sing and dance as well, perhaps better than you, at less

"You have a fine boy there, Mrs. Mallord."

salary than I am paying you. I need never have mentioned supplying her with a room in this hotel, much less a whole suite."

Jan hoped she would not cry. She took a firmer grip on the edge of the desk, staring down at the bright blue blotter which covered the top.

"What do you want me to do now?" she asked in a hushed tone.

Paul was silent. When he finally spoke, she felt the icy fingers that clutched her heart beginning slowly to relax.

She and Dora would stay on in the suite they now occupied.

The wardrobe Mary Elizabeth Howard had already provided for her would see Jan through the season, the manager went on. They would also take their meals as before. And in return, Jan was to receive a nominal salary while continuing her work in the floor show.

Jan, stammering a little, managed to thank Mr. Harris and escaped to the street where Tony Williams was waiting, the car drawn up to the curb.

Together they sat in silence, staring gloomily at the people passing on the sidewalk. Then Jan managed to tell him, a little incoherently, about her interview with Paul Harris.

Tony listened with growing interest as Jan outlined the trouble Jack had been in when he and a group of boys broke into the Y.M.C.A. and went swimming in the pool. She was not looking at him as she spoke softly, and did not notice how the man's jaw tightened and his eyes narrowed at her vivid description of Jack's home life and his companions.

"I'd like to see Jack," Tony said, bringing the car to an abrupt halt, "where does he live?"

"Would you really like to go there?" asked Jan doubtfully.

"I think we ought to see what's going on," said Tony. "Sometimes it helps a kid to talk things over with a man who understands his problems."

Jan, vaguely distrustful of the experiment, directed him through the narrow streets that led to her former rooming house. She was still more hesitant when a crowd of boys gathered around the car as they stopped in front of the door.

"Gee, that's Jan Payson!" she heard a voice from the rear of the group say with awe.

"Jack!" she called, as she stepped to the curb. Importantly Jack Mallord shouldered a couple of boys out of his way and sidled forward.

"Jack, is your mother home?" The boy grinned, and made some unintelligible sound that Jan took for an affirmative.

"Well, you tell your mother that I've brought a friend to see her and we want to talk to her and you."

"Aw . . . gee!" Jack protested, his freckled face reflecting his anguish. "You can ankle in there yourself. She ain't doin' nuttin' now. An' I wanna look at de bus."

Tony signaled to Jan to go ahead and invitingly threw open the door of the car to Jack. "All right, fella, hop in!"

Mrs. Mallord, graciously forgetting the troublesome times when Jan and her sister had lived in the apartment upstairs, was delighted to see her visitor. She hastily wiped off a chair and admired Jan's Mary Elizabeth Howard outfit with extravagant but sincere praise.

"Sure, and it's grand to see you looking so well, Miss Payson, and how is your dear sweet sister?"

Jan told her the latest news about Dr. Curtis, and then went on to explain, growing slightly hesitant in the face of Mrs. Mallord's undoubted independence, that she had brought Tony over to talk to Jack.

"It's a fine thing to have a smart young man talking to the boys," Mrs. Mallord agreed, to Jan's relief, "but you mustn't be thinking, Miss Payson, that because Jackie got into that little scrape he's a bad boy. A finer boy never lived, though it is my own I'm talking of."

Jan hastened to assure her that Jack would be doing Tony a favor in accepting anything her young man might do. With this view of the matter Mrs. Mallord was more receptive to the idea, and she went back to her original plaint that being in trouble with the law took so much time she had missed attending her uncle's funeral.

Jan, her purpose accomplished, took Mrs. Mallord out to meet Tony. She found him just driving back, the expensive car jammed with dirty, gamin faces that were strangely wistful and frankly awed by the perfection of the machine in which they rode. They were a subdued group as they tumbled out of the car and stood in an unmoving circle about it, their eyes fastened fixedly on Tony. He looked pleased and happy and, Jan thought, almost as young as the boys around him.

"You have a fine boy there, Mrs. Mallord. He and I are going to the hockey game tomorrow night if you will let me take him."

Mrs. Mallord, since she did not have to defend her offspring, began apologizing for him. She went on to explain Jackie's goodness of heart as an excuse for his evident lack of polish, and this led to relating how it was that Jackie had had trouble with the law, and the funeral she had missed attending. Jan, worried for fear she would be late, tried to interfere, but Tony seemed strangely interested in the recital, and asked for all sorts of details such as the deceased uncle's name and where he had lived.

"Well, I didn't mean to let you in for all that," Jan said with a little laugh when they finally drove away, "but when Mrs. Mallord starts, it's like a steam roller . . ."

"I enjoyed it."

It didn't seem to Jan that the day was any different from any of the others since her talk with Paul Harris. The morning sunlight, streaming across the deep blue of the sitting room carpet, lay in the same pattern; Dora's smile was just as contented as ever as Jan settled her among the pillows of her chaise longue.

Oh, the blessed relief of these quiet work-filled days! Now that Jan had made it clear that she was not going to be responsible for William Anthony Deverest's appearance at the floor show she felt that life was much brighter.

Making conversation, she remembered to tell her sister what she had heard about the suite being one of the most difficult to rent. Dora's eyes were round with amazement and her definite opinion was that anyone who did not like such a heavenly place must be out of his or her mind. As she spoke, she was lifting her breakfast tray from the table to her knees. Jan watched her in silence, and then commented on it.

"Dora! You lifted that tray so easily. Do you really feel—"

"Oh, I'm well enough—my doctor man has been giving me all sorts of little things to do that I never did before. It was going to be a great surprise for you some day to see me go through my daily dozen all at one time. But I forgot and lifted the tray. I've spoiled the surprise," Dora said sadly.

Jan hugged her so hard that the orange juice and coffee were in grave danger of falling to the floor. She could not speak; her heart was too full for words. But she resolved that if there was ever anything she could do for kindly Dr. Curtis she would never count the cost to herself.

Household Hints

To keep the oven, gas or electric, clean, wash it frequently with hot soda water—a tablespoon of soda to a quart of water. After using the oven, leave the door open until it has dried out. This helps avoid rust and stale odors. Always clean up foods that run over as quickly as possible.

* * *

A low, firm stool or a hassock placed near the washbowl, enables little children to reach the bowl to wash hands before meals and after toilet.

* * *

Change the flavor of gravy by adding a sprinkle of dried dill. Stir vigorously. Will give a tempting and unusual flavor.

* * *

When washing, if a handful of salt is added to the last rinse water, it keeps the clothes from freezing fast to the line.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Group riding is a rubber-saving procedure which is rapidly gaining acceptance. The average number of persons per car throughout the country prior to July 1, 1942, was 2. In six months it jumped to 2.44, and at the beginning of May it had increased to 2.66. The greatest gain has been in rural industrial areas, where the average is now 3.17 persons per car.

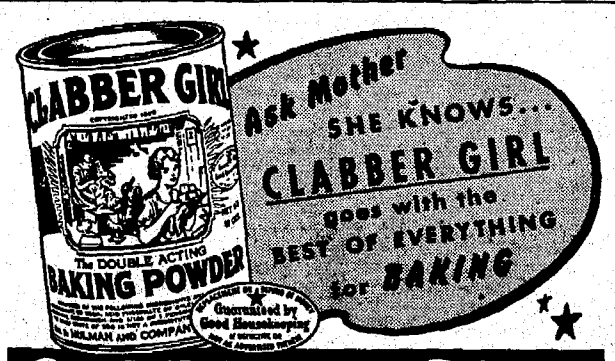

Bottled air may be a regular accessory in the postwar automobile, making the car owner independent of roadside stations when emergency tire inflation is necessary. The air bottles, now used by the Army, can be refilled at any air line.

A Message about Coffee

To the Coffee Trade and Coffee Consumers of America

Dear Friends:

THE NATIONAL COFFEE DEPARTMENT OF BRAZIL is pleased to announce that the new crop of Brazilian coffee has just been harvested. In the opinion of experts, this year's crop is one of the finest, if not the finest, in QUALITY, ever produced in Brazil.

A further reassuring statement from the National Coffee Department of Brazil is to the effect that necessary steps have already been taken to make this new, and finer, crop of coffee immediately available to American Importers in the ports of Santos, Rio de Janeiro, Angra dos Reis, Paranagua and Victoria.

In addition, the utmost is being done to permit buyers to make up their shipments, without delays, of all grades from the new crop.

As a result, Brazil is now in a position not only to supply the increasing demand for fine coffees on the part of the American Consumer, but further, to enable its customers either to increase the percentage of Brazils in their blends, or to maintain a high standard of quality in their hundreds of "Straight Brazil" or "Straight Santos" brands.

Cordially yours,

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Army Reduces 1944 Manpower Needs; Red Forces Sever Nazi Rail Lines; Action Spreads in Southwest Pacific; Anti-Subsidy Battle Gains in Scope

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Italy—British troops here are shown picking their way through typical ruins of village in savage fighting on the Italian front. Adding to difficulties were driving rains, which converted many of the small rivers and creeks running through the mountainous country into swirling torrents.

With the Nazis entrenched in elaborate concrete fortifications hewed into the rocky terrain, U. S. and British troops moved slowly and cautiously along the craggy slopes.

In the Aegean sea, the Germans pounded the Allied held Dodecanese island of Samos, following their capture of Leros. Previously, they had retaken Kos. Important stepping stones to Greece, these little islands also serve as bases for threatening neutral Turkey to the east.

ARMY CUTS SIZE:
Draft Change Voted

As the house sent the senate a bill calling for the deferment of fathers until all other eligible single and childless married men throughout the nation have been called, it was revealed that the army had decided to cut its manpower needs by 548,000.

In addition to the provision putting fathers at the bottom of the draft lists and postponing their induction from 30 to 60 days, the house bill also requires occupational deferments be reviewed by appeal boards within the district where the deferred person works. A five man medical commission would be established to consider the possibility of lowering physical standards.

The 548,000 cut in manpower needs will give the army a total force of 7,652,000 men. It also was revealed that the army had saved over 13 billion dollars out of 127 billion dollars appropriated for its use, with economies of over 10 billion dollars effected by curtailment of the armament, equipment and airplane programs.

RUSSIA:
Cut Nazi Railroads

Two important railroads in Russia linking German armies of the north with those of the south, and running westward into the big pre-war Polish cities of Warsaw and Lwow, were cut by the Red armies.

As the Russian forces severed these major German arteries, Nazi forces launched a strong counterattack against the Reds in the vicinity of these rail lines, gaining some ground. But here, as further to the south where the Germans claimed 500,000 Russians were hammering them above Krivoi Rog, the Nazi positions still were in a fluid state.

To the north, the Reds pecked at the Nazi base of Gomel, serving as the southern anchor of their Baltic line which is hinged on Finland. Ten classes of reservists in the Baltic states have been called to military service by the Nazis.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:
Action Spreads

With U. S. forces being strengthened on Bougainville for a major drive against the 40,000 Japs reportedly defending their last stronghold in the Solomons, Liberator bombers lashed against the enemy's tiny Gilbert and Marshall Island possessions, standing out like pesky little thorns along our supply routes to the battle areas.

Warding off Jap blows from the air, U. S. warships moved up Bougainville's west coast to pound the enemy's big airplane base of Buka. Absence of strong elements of the Japanese fleet in the advanced battle zone suggested that the enemy was concentrating his formidable naval force on protection of his 1,500 mile sea lane running from Japan proper to the rich islands south.

In New Guinea, Australian forces began moving northward from Finschhafen toward the Jap strongholds of Madang and Wewak, from which the enemy's aerial units have been striking at the Allied bases.

FOOD FRONT:
Subsidies Hit

Agricultural directors from five states joined in the bitter attack against continuation of the administration's subsidy program even as Economic Stabilization Director Fred Vinson was reportedly considering $9,000,000 a month subsidies to millers to prevent an increase in the price of bread.

Fred Vinson

Directors from South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Florida opposed the subsidy program before a senatorial committee, with South Dakota's E. H. Everson declaring government payments to hold down consumer's prices was the chief source of inflation by creating extra purchasing power out of the money saved buyers.

Strong anti-subsidy sentiment which was looked upon to shelve the government's program in both the house and senate, was further agitated by the proposed plan to pay millers about 14 cents a bushel for wheat to prevent bread price increases of from one to two cents a pound.

Aid Hog Marketing

To iron out problems associated with the marketing of the record pig crop, the government moved in two directions. First, Price Administrator Chester Bowles reduced the value of all pork cuts by two ration points; second, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones announced support prices of $13.75 per hundredweight would be paid in all markets for good to choice butcher hogs from 200 to 270 pounds.

Chester Bowles

Bowles' action was taken to stimulate consumption of pork and 100 per cent pork sausage. Lard and sausages made from other meat were not affected.

Besides guaranteeing support prices, WFA authorized farmers to slaughter their own hogs without federal license and sell to consumers for 90 days.

OIL:
Seek New Wells

With a projected goal of 24,000 new oil wells in 1944, prospects loomed for increased activity in the Rocky Mountain states.

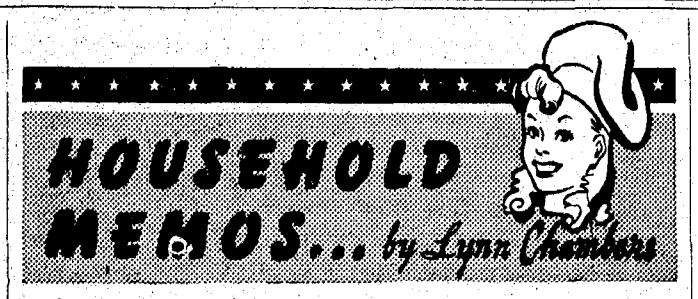

Of the 24,000 new oil wells, 5,000 are to be exploratory and the remaining 19,000 development projects. The immense Powder river basin in the northeastern section of Wyoming and southeastern section of Montana might prove the focal point of operations.

Congressional action in reducing royalties on discoveries on public domain to a flat 12.5 per cent for the duration and 10 years afterward furnishes incentive for action in the Rocky mountain region.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WAR PRODUCTION: The peak demand in war production has been passed, Harry Moulton, president of the Brookings Institute, recently told the American Finance conference in Washington. He said that stocks of raw materials have become entirely adequate, and even excessive in some cases. More and more cancellations of war goods contracts are coming, he predicted.

ELECTRIC IRONS: Two million electric flatirons will be manufactured and sold next year, if the WPB will release materials. Arthur Whiteside, vice chairman of WPB in charge of civilian needs, has requested that enough metal and other material be allowed to make 500,000 irons in the first quarter of 1944. About three million irons were sold annually, before the war.

Leftovers Used With Care Give Tempting Results

Mushrooms, rich in minerals and the B complex vitamins, combine with beef and give a tasty, nutritionally satisfying casserole.

One of the common ways of making meat points stretch their furthest is the habit of buying a large piece of meat and making it do for several meals. In this way, the family can have the pleasure of a roast from a large piece of meat done to succulence, then the homemaker can easily fashion meat dishes for at least 2 or 3 meals out of that which is left.

Unfortunately foods do not taste as good the second day as the first. Flavors seem to fall asleep, the meat becomes dry and insipid, and the family becomes tired of what they sniffingly refer to as leftovers. This needn't be the case if you spend a little time and effort waking up the leftovers and making them just as appetizing as the food in its first form.

Chicken is first-rate when served in these ways:

Country Chicken Loaf.
(Serves 6)

2 cups diced cooked chicken
½ cup chopped cooked carrots
1 cup cooked peas
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced pepper
1 cup bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Force chicken, carrots and peas through a food chopper. Add remaining ingredients and place in a greased loaf pan or a ring mold. Bake about 40 minutes in a moderate oven until firm. Serve with cream of mushroom sauce.

Chicken Yorkshire.
(Serves 6)

2 cups diced, cooked chicken
2 eggs
½ cup drippings, melted
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Leftover gravy

Place chicken in bottom of greased casserole with gravy. Set in oven to heat. Beat eggs, drippings and milk together. Sift dry ingredients together, add to liquid ingredients and beat until free from all lumps. The batter will be quite thin. Pour over chicken and bake at once in moderate (350-degree) oven. Serve from baking dish with gravy.

Meat leftovers, even if they are few, can give a rich meaty taste if they're used in this way:

Meat and Rice au Gratin.
(Serves 6)

2 cups leftover meat, diced
Milk or soup stock
2 cups boiled rice
2 tablespoons fat
½ cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cut meat into small pieces and moisten with stock or milk. Spread a layer of rice in greased baking dish. Place several pieces of small fat on top and sprinkle with grated cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Add a layer of chopped meat, fat and salt and pepper. Repeat with rice, cheese, etc. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

Spanish Potatoes.
(Serves 4)

1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
4 tablespoons fat
2 cups diced boiled potatoes
½ cup chopped cooked ham
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika

Saute onion and pepper in fat until cooked soft. Add potatoes, pimiento, ham and seasonings and cook until heated through.

Lamb and Spaghetti Casserole.
(Serves 4)

¼ package spaghetti
1 cup diced cooked lamb
3 tablespoons fat
1½ cups cooked peas, or peas and carrots
½ cup water or stock
1 tablespoon parsley
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
½ cup fine bread crumbs
2 teaspoons butter

Boil spaghetti until half cooked. Brown meat in fat. Line baking dish with half the spaghetti and fill with meat and peas. Combine broth with parsley, thyme and salt, sauce and curry powder and pour over meat. Cover with spaghetti and top with crumbs. Bake ½ hour in moderate oven (350 degrees) and garnish top with lemon slices and parsley.

Squash Puff.
(Serves 4)

2 cups mashed squash
½ cup light cream or rich milk
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains black pepper

Drain and mash cooked squash well. Mix in order given. Place in well-greased baking dish and brown in oven. Serve at once.

Note: Use well-drained, thoroughly mashed pumpkin, turnip or sweet potato in place of squash.

A bit of braised chicken garnished with buttered carrots, potato balls and celery leaves won't be a drain on points but will boost your menus.

Recent research reveals that mushrooms have a mineral content somewhat higher than many other vegetables and fruits. Potassium and phosphorus are available along with appreciable amounts of copper and iron. Mushrooms are also one of the best plant sources of the B complex vitamins. Used to extend meats, mushrooms are not only nutritionally satisfying, but they can add zest and flavor even to the simplest of foods:

Casserole of Beef and Mushrooms.
(Serves 6)

1½ to 2 pounds short ribs of beef
Flour, seasoned with salt and pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup water
2 stalks celery, chopped
6 scallions
1 8-ounce can mushrooms
1 small onion sliced
2 to 3 carrots, sliced
3 medium-sized potatoes, quartered

Cut short ribs in individual squares and flour them. Brown in a small amount of fat in heavy skillet. Remove to casserole. Add sliced onion, vinegar, thyme, water and drippings in skillet, stirring until well blended; pour over meat. Cover and roast in slow oven (300 degrees) until tender, about 2 hours. Add vegetables and mushrooms with liquid and continue cooking 30 to 40 minutes. Add more water if necessary.

Lynn Says:

Fats Are Important: Fats produce glycerine needed to make munitions. Take home all fat and bone trimmings you pay for with your meat. Fats that you don't use will be bought by some markets.

Accumulated sausage and bacon fat can be used for frying potatoes, eggs, fish, hash, chicken, or even in waffles, cornbread or gravy.

Fats from roasts, chops and steaks can be clarified by heating 4 slices of potato with 1 quart of fat over low heat until fat bubbles. Strain through several thicknesses of cheesecloth and store in light-proof, tightly covered container. Use this clarified fat for making spice and chocolate cakes and cookies.

MORE WAR NEWS: CARROTS IN PIE!

Carrot pies which look and taste like pumpkin pies have been emerging from M.S.C. test ovens.

Food dehydration studies by the Experimejnt Station at East Lansing, were made possible by a special appropriation of the Michigan State legislature. Experiments with the carrots have been conducted by D. C. Alderman of the department of horticulture and Barbara Newcombe of the the department of home economics.

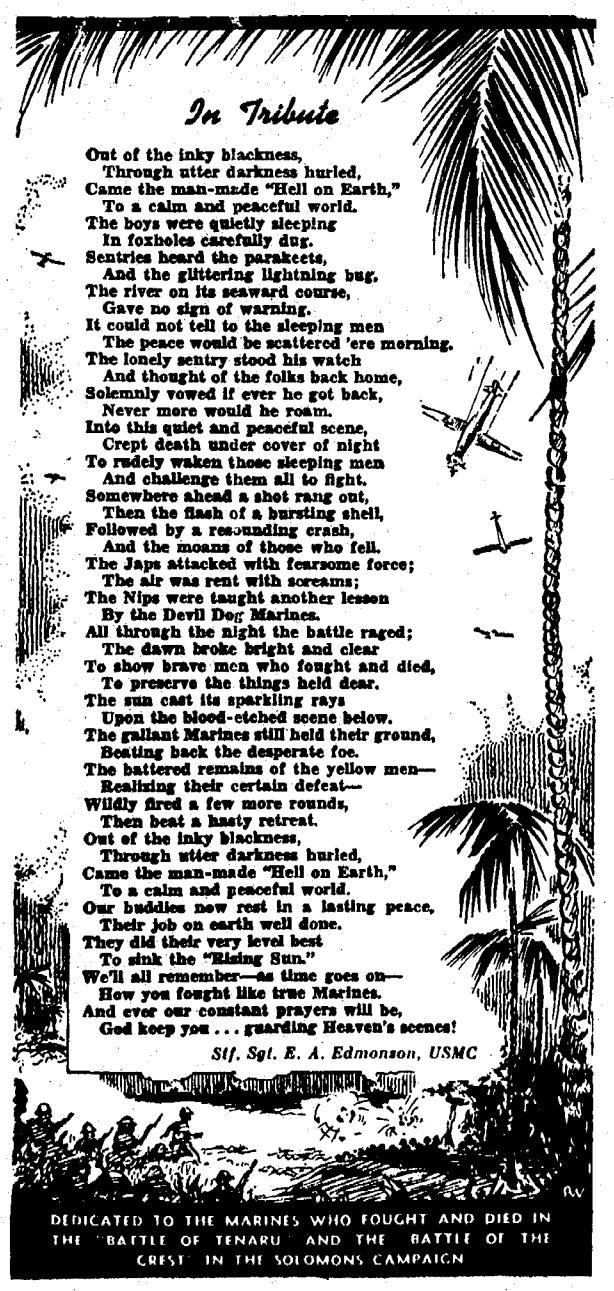

In view of the difficulty of large scale or long term storing of pumpkin and squash, the fact that canned pumpkin and squash are rationed and "points" must be surrendered for them and that the quantities now available for civilian use are very limited, attention has been focused on possible substitutes.

Carrots will store safely in fresh condition longer than pumpkin or squash, but still not from one harvest to another. For the year around use, some method is necessary which will make them available in some form, twelve months per year. They may, of course, be canned or quick-frozen and held in locker-type low temperature storages. Such facilities, however, are now being taxed to the limit with other products.

Carrots were prepared by grinding and drying down to less than 2 per cent moisture. The resultant weight is but one-seventeenth of the raw carrots, giving about 2½ pounds of product for a bushel. After dehydration, some means of getting smooth texture appeared desirable. With the aid of a store-type coffee grinder, Alderman ground the crumbs of dehydrated carrots into a powder.

Miss Newcombe then baked pies for tasting juries. She evolved a recipe with acceptable texture as well as taste. By taking four tablespoons of the carrot powder and adding exactly one and one-fourth cups of water, she obtained the equivalent of canned pumpkin texture.

From there on the process is similar to that of using canned or fresh pumpkin. The technique is exact enough to turn out 28½ pies, nine inches in diameter, from an original quantity of a bushel of carrots. Tasters claim the carrot pie is even superior to actual pumpkin.

LEGISLATURE. Reversing the usual procedure, Governor Kelly has formulated the following policy for the 1944 special session of the legislature:

The date of the session will be set AFTER legislative committees complete a tentative outline of the most urgent post-war needs and the state's critical needs for the coming fiscal year, and AFTER members of the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee have agreed upon a budget to fit these needs.

The 1944 session, because of the war emergency, should be streamlined in order to speed up handling of bills and permit an early return of legislators to their homes. Many legislators are working long hours and lack help to handle their business affairs during a prolonged session at Lansing.

BILLS. The governor's office, aided by legislative leaders and key committees, should prepare tentative drafts of bills. Legislators should have these bills awaiting them upon their arrival in Lansing. Any changes in the bills can be made in the committees and acted upon by the house and senate. Thus, considerable time should be saved for everyone. In fact, a printed outline of pending legislation should be mailed to every legislator well in advance of the first legislative session. Such legislation should be not "Kelly bills" but should reflect the judgment of legislative leaders summoned into deliberations well before the governor issues the call.

LONG RANGE. Post-war needs of the State of Michigan, such as state hospitals, state training schools and state educational institutions, and office buildings in Detroit and Lansing, should be "budgeted" according to a long-range program. Needs should be given priority according to their urgency, and thus the most critical of state building fire hazards might be placed first on the list and given right-of-way for 1944-45.

NO MELON. However, the state's post-war reserve, which Auditor General Vernon J. Brown now estimates will be $50,000,000 by next July 1, should not become a "melon" to be sliced up during the 1944 legislative session. A substantial amount should be retained to meet unforeseen contingencies if they arise in the post-war period.

HEALTH. Health needs of the Detroit metropolitan area, the scene of a race riot last June, should receive recognition in the legislative call. These health needs (which prompted 75,000 or more Negroes to jam Belle Isle on one hot Sunday) should be met by an appropriation to acquire parks and playgrounds in the Southeastern counties of Michigan. Emphasis, however, should be on a long-range program.

PLANNING. A focal point in the governor's program is the Michigan Planning commission which is the state's "board of directors" in determining post-war needs and their priorities. For the first time, the state of Michigan now possesses a complete inventory of state property — an accomplishment which should net $50,000 saving each year in building repairs alone. The building committee of the state administrative board is another key agency.

OFFICES. An additional office building in Lansing would save $150,000 a year in rentals. Such a structure, built on functional lines, should permit savings in governmental costs through a possible centralized accounting department for many state agencies. The same thing could be done for a Detroit office building.

CRITICISM. The Detroit Labor News (AFL) has been tossing the harpoon regularly at Governor Kelly. In October it charged by editorial innuendo that Kelly either was catering for support of the Anti-Saloon league or was in league with bootleggers. Reason: Scarcity of liquor. On Nov. 19 the same publication carried this page one headline: "Milk Sought — Gov. Kelly Offers Whiskey." Reason: Scarcity of milk. The shortage of hairpins offers new possibilities. Maybe Kelly can be blamed for that, too.

BEER. The state liquor control commission reports that production of Michigan breweries during October was 21.37 per cent greater than in October, 1942.

FOOD. A subcommittee of the Michigan food marketing council is working on plans for a state-wide advertising program to encourage greater use in Michigan of Michigan food products. Benefits: Relief to war-time transportation through short hauls from farm to Michigan markets; education on quality of Michigan products; better consumer appreciation of Michigan agriculture. . . . A 25 per cent increase in food law violations is reported. Offenders blame shortage of help.

DELINQUENCY. Parents who neglect their children and thus are indirectly responsible for repeated acts of juvenile delinquency would be liable to citation for contempt of court under a plan approved by the Michigan juvenile code study commission at Lansing. The commission also endorsed proposals requiring parents to pay at least half of the cost of institutionalizing or caring for offspring they have neglected.

ACCIDENTS. Just as the 1943 rise of hunting accidents has been accredited to war-time nerves, so the experts are forecasting a rise in automobile accidents after the war. The danger is "emotional letdown", announced Maxwell Halsey, executive director of the State safety commission. Halsey said the present 35-mile limit would probably be raised gradually, first to 50.

HELICOPTERS. Inspired by the rapid expansion of aviation in World War II, experts now envision a future for Michigan citizens in which Detroit would become the air center of the world and 85 per cent of the state's population would have access to air travel through helicopters and huge transport planes served by a network of 240 airfields outside of Detroit. Thomas E. Walsh, director of the Michigan Board of Aeronautics, presented the above picture recently in Detroit. Use of aviation will accelerate the population trend from city to outlying suburbs and farms.

EDUCATION. Return of more than 400,000 soldiers and sailors to Michigan will swell enrollments at University of Michigan and Michigan State College to all-time peaks. The university has a $27,000,000 program for post-war construction and expansion, based on expectancy of 18,000 students. The college likewise envisions a 10,000 student enrollment with resultant need for more classrooms and facilities. Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, chairman of the Michigan planning commission, recently revealed that educators are considering additions of thirteenth and fourteenth grades to urban high schools in order to train tradesmen for industries.

Timber Sales From State Forests Show Marked Increase

Lansing, Nov. 29 — Receipts from timber sales on state forests for the first four months of the current fiscal year almost equal the total amount received during the whole previous fiscal year indicating an upward trend from the 1942-43 slump, the forestry division of the state conservation department has announced. Timber sales from July 1 through November 1 netted $12,000, nearly 50% more than was received in the preceding four months. Receipts for the 1942-'43 fiscal year totaled $13,000.

More "stumpage" area has been made available to lumber operators by the conservation department and there is a greater demand for operating permits. Since July 1, 213 permits have been issued for cutting timber on state forest areas. Two-thirds of the stumpage cut on these areas goes into pulpwood and one-third is made into lumber, ties and other wood products.

Forestry officials expect that more labor for woods operations will be available in the northern part of the state now that the farming season is over.

THAT'S RIGHT, Mrs. Higgins.

No points, no coupons—no rationing of electricity.

Not that it's any less important than food, or fuel, or shoes. In fact, electric power has rightly been called the life-blood of war production.

But our government does ask all of us to use electricity wisely. Even though there's no shortage in sight, the making of electricity requires manpower, fuel, transportation and critical materials —things on which war has first call today.

So, be as careful with electricity as with coupons. Use all you need—but need all you use.
